The Story of Johnny Appleseed

Johnny Appleseed was a legendary American who planted and supplied apple trees to much of the United States of America. Many people think that Johnny Appleseed was a fictional character, but he was a real person. Johnny was a skilled nurseryman who grew trees and supplied apple seeds to the pioneers in the mid-western USA. Appleseed gave away and sold many trees. He owned many tree nurseries in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Illinois, and Indiana, where he grew his beloved apple trees and then sold or traded them. Although he was successful with his trees, Appleseed lived a simple life. He was a vegetarian, wore raggedy clothes, and was a very religious man. It is said that as Johnny traveled, he wore his cooking pot on his head as a hat (this may or may not be true!)

Johnny Appleseed was born in Leominster, Massachusetts, on September 26, 1774. His real name was John Chapman, but he was called Johnny Appleseed because of his love for growing apple trees. Johnny died at the age of 70; he is buried in Fort Wayne, Indiana. He had spent 50 years growing apple trees and traveling to spread his precious trees around his country so that people could enjoy apples. In 1966, the US Postal Service designed a 5 cent stamp honoring Johnny Appleseed

Quick "Candied" Apples

Ingredients:

Powdered dry gelatin,
Sugar-Free or sweetened (any flavor)
Washington Red Delicious apples (or your favorite variety)

Method:

1. Spread dry gelatin on a plate.
2. Cut apples in half.
3. Dip the cut side of each apple in the gelatin. The colors will brighten as the gelatin picks up the apple's juice.

4. Serve immediately or refrigerate for up to one hour before serving.

Servings:

As many as you want!

Lost in the Orchard

This truckload of apples got out of the orchard without any detours. Can you do the same?
